Motivation and Anticipatory Set:

Activity/Method Title	Time	Description/Procedure
Introduction/Anticipatory Set: Check In and warm up game	5	Today we are playing pass the clap! So, we are going to stand in a big circle. One person is going to start us off, and will face a person to their left or right. These individuals will face each other and without any signal or verbal communication, they will try to clap in unison. The clap has to sound like one single person clapped. Until it does, then the person will face the next. We will go around the circle as fast as possible.
Transition: Now that we warmed up, let's go over our agenda for today.
Activity/Method Title	Time	Description/Procedure
Going over the Agenda	5 Minutes	We're going to go over today's agenda. A google slideshow will be presented with the "Think, Pair, Share" as number 1, reading as number 2, and Script writing as number 3. This is so that the students are aware of what we are doing. The google slideshows will be uploaded to google classroom for the students to view. Slide 2 will have the think, pair, share activity with the questions. Slide 3 will have the pages we will read. Slide 4 will have their summative assignment with instructions.
Transition: Now that we warmed up, let's go over our agenda for today.

Procedure:

Describe and, if needed, number the steps of an activity that will allow students to creatively use the new concepts and/or skills you will teach. The description of the instructional procedures should be thorough and follow a logical sequence. Clearly explain what the teacher will do and what the students will do. Make sure students understand the connection between the activity and the objectives/standards of the lesson. Do not assume anything and do not write this section in First Person. Use the format below. Note: Your lesson may include more or less than 4 activities, please adjust accordingly.

Activity/Method Title	Time	Description/Procedure
Introductory to lesson	5 minutes Total 3 Minutes to write 2 Minutes to share	Think, pair, share activity with the following questions. They will be shown up on a google slide to the class. They will first answer the questions in a journal or piece of paper. After writing down these responses they will share with the group for at least 5 minutes. - Would you choose to abide by the laws, or would you also break them? Why? - What is more important to you? Loyalty, morals, or laws? Why?
Transition: Now that we have discussed some Greek theater, I want you all to look at the scripts and read over some of the pages. While you do this, please annotate the script highlighting any elements of theater you see.
Learning Activity/ Method #2:	Time: 5 mins .	I will assign them pages 203-208 to read as a class by assigning them characters to read.
Transition: Now that we wrapped up our reading for today, we will begin working on the summative assignment.

Learning Activity/Method #3:	Time: 15 5 Minutes of discussion with groupmates 10 Mins of collaborative work	Students will be grouped. Once they are grouped in groups of 3. They will choose a thought/message and write out a short chorus script with this. They will have 5 minutes to brainstorm and 15 minutes to write. A slideshow with instructions will be provided. They have been provided the script template on google classroom with the instructions and rubric attached. They should write at least 1 page. Included in the script should be: Thought/message, characters, formal diction, melody. They are to refer to the template I provided them so that they view how they are being assessed. Their focus is on the following: Plot, Character, Thought, Diction, and Melody. I will walk around to check in and answer any questions that students may have.
Lets wrap up with writing
Learning Activity/Method #4	Time: 5	The students will perform their short script (or if time does not allow, 1-2 lines will be shared).
Wonderful performances! Let's take out a slip of paper now for our exit slip.

Closure:

How will you help students summarize the key points of the lesson to reinforce what they have learned? How will you help them use what they have learned?

Activity/Method Title	Time	Description/Procedure
Learning Activity/Method #4:	5	Students will turn in their chorus script and answer an exit slip with the questions: "What is something you learned about Greek theatre that you found interesting? What element from Greek Theatre do you see most often used in shows, movies, or plays?"

Assessment: (Formative)

How will you determine if the students mastered the objectives of the lesson?

My students will turn in the exit slip so that I can see any progress on what they learned. They will also be assigned a script which will be used to assess the students and their progress. They will be assessed on the peer evaluation individually.

Assignment/Homework: They will fill out the peer evaluation google form so that I can see if all individuals equally contributed to the group work. If their script is not finalized by the end of class, they will have to work on it outside of the classroom and turn it in by the next day.

Accommodations

For a student who is hard of hearing, I will add subtitles to the videos provided. I will also make sure that the slideshow is presented and that if necessary, I will give further information to the student.

For a visual individual, I will use descriptive language so that my student stays engaged in the material. If a student needs less screen time, I will decrease the amount of lecture time for the students. I will also provide google slideshows.

For exceptional students, I could have the student(s) work with individualized studying or to also help their peers if their peers need assistance. For an English language learner, I will make sure that I check in with the students by asking them questions regarding the lesson. I would ask them to identify with me as a partner (if they would like to) some of the Greek elements (rather than fully independently) unless the student feels comfortable doing so.

Theorist

The theories that most align with this lesson plan are Aristotle and Vygotsky. Scaffolding has been essential in being able to build their skills and knowledge for their final summative assignment using Aristotle theories and findings.
