

LESSON PLAN

Name: Addis Quiterio

Title of Lesson: Laws, Moral, and Justice debate

Grade Level: 9th Grade

Lesson Purpose/Rationale/Essential Question:

Students will collaborate for a debate regarding one of Aristotle's elements (thought). Students will be asked to prepare a debate and also use critical thinking when debating. Students will also be asked to use the script "Antigone" for textual evidence to back their claims. This is important to increase their critical thinking skills and script analysis skills.

Prior Knowledge Required:

Reading, writing, knowledge of what a thought is and what a moral, law, and justice are. Knowledge of the plot in Antigone.

Learning Standards:

HS Proficient TH:Cr1.1.I. c. Use script analysis to generate ideas about a character that is believable and authentic in a drama/theatre work.

HS Proficient a. Examine a drama/ theatre work using supporting evidence and criteria, while considering art forms, history, culture, and other disciplines.

Learning Objectives:

The Learners Will Be Able to:

- 1. Identify a thought such as law, justice, or moral from the play Antigone throughout class that is 100% accurate.*
- 2. Demonstrate critical thinking skills, analysis and improvisational skills through improvisation activities and an in class assignment with 100% accuracy.*

Assessment: (Formative)

Debate essay and rubric. Self reflection essay.

Teacher Materials/Preparation:

Antigone by Sophocles, rubric, google doc, thought slip, google classroom

Student Materials:

Paper/index cards, rubric, pencil/pen, laptop, google doc, google classroom, Antigone by Sophocles

Bibliography:

Google classroom. Google.docs. Antigone Full Text.pdf - Google Drive

Works Cited

Sophocles, et al. Sophocles: The Three Theban Plays. Quality Paperback Book Club, 1994.

Motivation and Anticipatory Set:

How will you initially get your students engaged in the lesson? What questions will you ask? What will you show them? Provide a detailed plan for the opening motivating moments of the lesson.

Activity/Method Title	Time	Description/Procedure
Introduction/Anticipatory Set: List the title or type of induction that will be used.	10 minutes	Hello everyone lets settle in. How are we doing this morning? Today's warmup is a debate. Can half of the class go to one side of the room and the other on the other side of the room. I will then choose one side of the room to agree and the other half to disagree. I will give you a topic to debate and I will need one individual from each group to go up and debate. An example of this is "chicken nuggets should be eaten for breakfast" and then students will debate. This will happen until every person debates.
Transition: These were some amazing debates! Great job everyone! Now we will move on to our in class work.

Procedure:

Activity/Method Title	Time	Description/Procedure
Learning Activity/ Method #1: List the title or type of activity or method that will be used (i.e. lecture, cooperative learning).	2	The warmup game we just did was to prepare us for an Antigone debate. I'm going to number you in 3's. I will then number them and there will be 3 groups. After I finish gathering the 3 groups, they will pick from a cup a piece of paper that has either morals, law, or justice. They will pick without seeing

		the paper prior. Once they pick I will give them directions.
Transition: How will you move from the first learning activity to your next learning activity?
Learning Activity/ Method #2: Work time	15	Now that your thought has been chosen you will collaborate with your groupmates to develop an essay arguing for your side. The prompt is "Was Antigone justified in defying Creons' law? Use text evidence to back up your claims as well as reasoning.
I will walk around and check in with groups and make sure they are on tasks.
Learning Activity/ Method #3: Work time	10	How are we doing on time? You have 10 more minutes to finish your essay. I will continue to walk around and check in with groups.
Transition: Okay lets wrap up. Team morals stand on this side, team justice on the opposite side, and team law on this side please. Does anyone want to begin?
Learning Activity/ Method #4: Debate	15	The groups will debate for 15 minutes.
I really liked all of your points of views. Even if you did or did not agree with your side, it was really interesting to see that you were still able to argue for your team.

Closure:

How will you help students summarize the key points of the lesson to reinforce what they have learned? How will you help them use what they have learned?

Activity/Method Title	Time	Description/Procedure
Closing: Class discussion	3 minutes	Please turn in your essays and make sure everyone's name is on the google doc. You have a short assignment which is to write a 1 page reflection on your own thoughts and how the debate made you feel. Does anyone have any questions? Have a great rest of your day!

Assignment/Homework:

Short one page reflection on the following questions:

“How did the debate make you feel? Regardless of the team you were in, which thought aligned more with yours? Did the debate sway your opinions? What thought was most difficult to side with and why?”

Theory and your lesson:

Aristotle’s theories best align with my lesson plan. He analyzed tragedy and focused on morality, laws, and justice for his thought/theme.

Accommodations

Index cards to read off for debate time

Laptop usage for visual aid